Seven Nominees Recommended for Private, Non-Profit MLK Hospital Board of Directors

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday will consider seven prominent leaders in health care, business and law to serve as the first board of directors of the new independent private, non-profit Martin Luther King, Jr. (MLK) Hospital.

The nominees are being jointly recommended by L.A. County Chief Executive Officer William T Fujioka and Dr. John D. Stobo, University of California (UC) senior vice president for health sciences and services. Each nominee has at least 10 years of experience in health care, business and/or law.

Upon appointment by the Board of Supervisors and UC, the board of directors will serve as the independent governing body that will oversee operations of the MLK Hospital, which is expected to open in 2013.

Fujioka said the nominees are highly qualified. "A slate of premier leaders in the health care industry, business and law has been recommended for the independent governing board. The board of directors will assume total responsibility for one of the most important tasks in health service delivery in L.A. County, the opening and operation of the new private, non-profit MLK Hospital, in partnership with the UC. The board nominees have our highest confidence. They will have our utmost support as they embark on their board's mission to bring quality health, emergency care and hospital services to the people of South Los Angeles."

Dr. Stobo also praised the qualifications of the nominees. "Not only do the board members bring great experience in serving large organizations, but they also understand the unique mission of MLK and its importance to the health needs of the community it serves. We are fortunate to have them as inaugural board members. UC is committed to working with Los Angeles County and the state to open this vitally needed hospital.”
